What is IAAM?

IAAM stands for International Association of Assembly Managers. It was founded in 1924 in the United States of America. At the moment it is the world's largest association of professionals that manage, or provide products and services to public assembly facilities such as stadiums, arenas, auditoria, convention centres, exhibition halls and performing arts venues. It has about 5000 members worldwide (North America, Australia, Asia Pacific and Europe).

As the acknowledged leader in public assembly facility management industry, IAAM's mission is to educate, advocate for and inspire public assembly venue professionals, worldwide. IAAM is increasing its role to address the changing needs of the international membership all around the world.

What is IAAM – Europe?

IAAM – Europe is the European branch of IAAM worldwide. It was established in 2004 as a forum for professionals working in the European venue management industry.
